Ready for the Chevrolet EN-V Concept car ?

General Motors' goal for this electric vehicle is to be a connected, zero-emissions personal transportation car that addresses issues with traffic congestion, parking availability, air quality and affordability. At 1,100 pounds and less than 50 inches long, it's one-third the size of a conventional automobile. Running on a lithium-ion battery, it has a driving range of 25 miles.

I think it's time for the president to start catching up.

Remember that these are totals.
Ford did not serve a full term, Papa Bush served only one term, etc.

NEW RULE: IF CONSERVATIVES are going to complain about how many executive orders Obama has issued, then they must admit that he has issued less than any president since McKinley in 1901. They must also admit that they have no idea what an executive order really is or who William McKinley was.

Obama: 154	Eisenhower: 486
G. W. Bush: 291	Truman: 896
Clinton: 364	F. D. Roosevelt: 3728
Bush: 166	Hoover: 1011
Reagan: 381	Coolidge: 1253
Carter: 320	Harding: 484
Ford: 169	Wilson: 1803
Nixon: 346	Taft: 698
